This will be part of the discussion question grade and class participation.

Disruption of that environment will be dealt with by first a warning, second a conference, third a dismissal from class and last, expulsion from the course. recognize though, not everyone thinks and believes alike. It is best to keep an open mind when viewing art.

About the discussion questions...

1. Write a minimum of 3 full paragraphs for the regular discussion questions. I am looking for ideas and concepts not word count. Read the questions carefully and answer fully, some questions may have other specific requirements.
2. Prepare to answer your discussion question by writing your answer in a word document. Use Times New Roman 12-point font and single or 1 ½ line spacing, not double spaced. Use regular font, not italics. Correct your spelling and grammatical errors and create paragraph organization. Citations are expected for all information. Copy and paste this document into the discussion question submission box. Save all of your DQ postings in a file folder on your desktop to have a record of your work for this class. Use citations, simple (text, page#) and if you use other sources cite them accurately, use formal citation methods. Remember though, your textbook is your primary source, use it before you use anything else.
3. You are also required to “reply” to one other student’s original posting. This reply is worth 20 points. Each discussion question is a combined 100 points (80 points max for your answer to the DQ and 20 points for your reply posting).
4. DQ answers that do not reflect an informed attitude, that is, that reflect that you have not read the material or answering the questions in a non-serious and informed fashion will be graded down substantially. Repeated violations will be treated in a manner consistent with no answer submitted for the question. And posts with no original submission but do have one reply posting will likewise be a zero “0”.
